Ben Veasey

Parallel Session #6

Creating a Trusted Support Network: The Mercian RDM Support Group

Ben is a Senior Research Librarian at the University of Nottingham, focussing on aspects of research support such as open access, research data management, bibliometrics and researcher IDs.

His primary interests lie in the areas of digital preservation and research data management. He has previously worked on establishing digital preservation services at the University of Warwick and University of Nottingham and, more recently, a research data management service at Nottingham Trent University.
